

Mangroves are important

- They are a natural barrier against storms and tsunamis.
- They are a natural filter for pollutants and sediments.
- They are a natural habitat for many species of fish and other marine life.
- They are a natural source of timber and other products.

Why are mangroves important?

- They are a natural barrier against storms and tsunamis.
- They are a natural filter for pollutants and sediments.
- They are a natural habitat for many species of fish and other marine life.
- They are a natural source of timber and other products.